Transfer from the airport to Tarangire: Via Arusha you drive in about 2 hours to Tarangire National Park. Along the way, you'll see the villages of the famous Maasai tribe and the shepherds with their herds. Maybe you can stop to visit a typical Maasai market. The rest of the day you can relax in the camp, take a bush walk with the lodge's guards, or just laze by the pool overlooking the park and maybe some wildlife, such as elephants or giraffes.

A mysterious night tour through Tarangire: In the evening, a completely different animal life awakens in the wilderness of Tarangire. During a night safari, you can see things you couldn't experience during the day. A whole new world is opening up for you. The nocturnal animals that hide during the day emerge during this hour. Many eyes light up in the dark when the lights of the safari vehicle shine into the depth of the night. Animals such as porcupines, several smaller felines, elephants, lions and leopards are often spotted at this hour. A night safari takes about 2.5 hours and before midnight you'll be back at your camp.

A first day in Tanzania's most famous park

Sat. 28 Mar

Thousands of wildebeest and zebras in the Serengeti: Time to chase the big migration! Leaving the Ngorongoro area, the vast extensions of the Serengeti plains before you will impress you and wanting you to explore this area in deep. In general you will find impala, giraffe, hippo, hyena and often lions and other big cats such as leopards and cheetahs. The migration, consisting of around 2 million animals, is on the move all year round. Usually the wildebeest and the zebras during the short rainy season in October and November are to be found moving from the hills in the north of the Serengeti, to the plains in the south. During the longer rainy season of April, May and June they return north, always in search for green pastures. With fluctuations of annual rainfall the exact location of the animals varies from year to year. Your guide however will know the location of the herds and also where to get the best views. Naturally it also attracts a mass of predators and you may be able to see a band of lionesses gather for a hunt. Through the Nabi Gate you enter the Serengeti and you keep on searching for game until you arrive at your accommodation. After taking a refreshing shower, sit down at the campfire and relax with a cold drink. The night will be filled with, far away, the hyena's laughs and the roar of the lion and who knows, an elephant or giraffe strolling around your room.

Sun, 29 Mar

Keep on searching for game on the endless plains: A full day to discover as much as possible of the wonders of the Serengeti, the Big Migration and all other wild animals. Together with your guide you can set up your program: a full day of game driving with picnic lunch, or an early morning drive with back in the camp a late breakfast, rest and lunch, after which you set off again late afternoon. You drive through a varied landscape, often in the wide open savannah scattered with the typical kopjes (rock formations), but also through hilly forests and along the hippo pools, where dozens of hippos are relaxing in the water. If you would like to enjoy a real once-in-a-lifetime experience, go for a hot-air balloon safari (optional with supplement).

Hippos and secretary birds

Mon, 30 Mar

Start the day with an unique balloon safari (Optional with supplement):

Experience the beauty of the Serengeti from above. A hot air balloon safari over the Serengeti offers a birds-eye view of the rolling plains of East Africa. Take in the sights of the wildlife and landscapes below as the balloon gently floats through the crisp air. A hot air balloon safari provides excellent photographic opportunities from a unique perspective. Along with the incredible photos come memories that will last a lifetime; being thousands of meters above the Serengeti is definitely an unparalleled, once in a lifetime safari experience.

Another spectacular day in the Serengeti: Two days in the Serengeti are not always enough, there is so much to see! So today you leave again, along the curvy dust roads, searching for lions, leopards and cheetahs. But apart from the Big Five and the Great Migration the savannah has so much more to offer. Herds of cheerful impala and Thomson gazelle, curious zebras and elegant giraffes are all around you. And look also in the sky and the trees to discover all those colourful birds, from hard-working yellow weavers and the smart lilac-breasted rollers to the bigger secretary birds and marabou storks.

Into the Ngorongoro Highlands

Tue. 31 Mar

Walk on the Ngorongoro Crater rim: Would you like to stretch your legs after a few days of gamedriving? After leaving the Serengeti, you arrive midafternoon on in the forested area of the Ngorongoro Highlands. Together with an armed ranger (imagine you meet an elephant on your way...), you make a lovely walk of around 2 1/2 hours on the rim of the Ngorongoro Crater. You might meet with zebras or buffalos, however what this walk merely is about are the unique plants and trees found on this high altitude. But above all enjoy the breath-taking views over the crater!

The Ngorongoro, a highlight to never forget

Wed, 1 Apr

Big Five in the Ngorongoro Crater: With a diameter of 18 kilometers, an area of 260 km² and a 600-meter-high crater wall, the Ngorongoro Crater is the largest still intact crater in the world. From the edge you look out over this amphitheater with impressive and breathtaking beauty. Green vast plains, rivers, forests, marshes and the often-white Lake Magadi form a home for about 30,000 animals. A lot of people want to witness this. As a result, it is no longer allowed to make a game drive longer than 6 hours per day. But this is enough to discover the whole crater. This Noah's Ark is an ideal breeding ground for this unique ecosystem teeming with wildlife. Predators such as lions, leopards, cheetahs but also elephants, monkeys, zebras, gazelles, rhinos, buffaloes, wildebeest and hippos live here. Most of these animals, whenever they want, can walk in and out of the crater through the steep crater walls as they please.

One of the most famous properties in the Ngorongoro Highlands, Gibb's Farm was once the family home for the Gibb's family and is a true sanctuary after the heat of the Serengeti or the national parks to the east. Comprising a series of quirky cottages, set amongst stunning flower gardens, this is certainly one of the best choices if you are staying in the highlands. Gibb's Farm is located approximately a 45 minute drive from the entrance to the Ngorongoro Conservation Area, off the main road past the town of Karatu. Consisting of the main house – dining room, lounge, open fire, bar – and 20 rooms, Gibb's Farm is largely a stone and wood build. The farm house is a large bungalow, and is characteristic of a certain upcountry style – white stone exterior, chimney, corrugated roofing – and its wooden floors, open stone chimney breast and mixed furnishings are very much in keeping with country frontier styles. The sleeping rooms at Gibb's Farm – a mix of bungalows and cottages – are spotted around the gardens. Each is individually themed, individually named, and stands as a monument to a particular slice of the farm's history. Surrounded by plants and lawns, most of the cottages are a wood and corrugated iron build, simply and elegantly furnished. Depending on its size, each has comfortable double/twin bed, a seating area, veranda and a seating area. Much emphasis is placed on art it has its own studio and artists-in-residence - and on literature, and the rooms, which house small libraries and original pieces, are designed to reflect and encourage this interest. The bathrooms are spacious, well-lit and have giant sized baths.
